Embargo on Sugar Is Causing Crisis in Europe

By International Heraldic Staff Correspondent.

(Special Media Dispatch.)

Paris, July 15.—A sugar crisis looms on the economic horizon of Europe, especially in France, and the many cases of it in John Barleycorn's death. It seems that his funeral is being celebrated in America by considerable quantities of sweets, notably candy and soft drinks.

The result is that Herbert C. Hoover has felt himself constrained to place an embargo on sugar exports from America.

This is a bit in France, who have a sugar famine and in Italy, where the authorities are busy in shutting down shipments from America.

Such cloudiness prevails today along the Atlantic coast and over the southern States, with scattered rains from southern New England to eastern Florida. Tough Luck—on Both Sides

FOUR MORE HURT AND 14 AUTOS ARE BURNED

Massachusetts Ave. Is Turned
Into River of Burning
Gasoline

In one of the most remarkable accidents which Boston has ever seen, which revealed the highway of Massachusetts Avenue as a river of burning gasoline, four women and two men were killed or injured and fourteen automobiles either wholly or partially destroyed.

The injured were:

Miss Jennie Moore, twenty-one, No. 17 Day street, New Somerville, killed about the rear, ankle and lower limbs, at City Hospital.

Miss Frances E. Egan, seventeen, No. 23 Baiton street, Black Hills, killed and crushed, at City Hospital.

William J. Moore, No. 21 Day street, West Somerville, burns on right hand and arm. Treated at City Hospital.

Eugene Monahan, Lowell street, Lexington, burned about left hand and arm.

A collision between an automobile and a gasoline truck on Massachusetts avenue, at a "Y" where a street car crosses the highway, and a lighted match thrown from a moving automobile did the deed.

The collision between the tank and the automobile did the deed. The tank, which was driven by a man named Frank J. Egan, was moving westward on the highway. The automobile, which was driven by a man named Charles J. Taylor, was moving eastward on the highway. The two vehicles collided, and the automobile was thrown into the air. The gasoline truck, which was driven by a man named Charles J. Taylor, was moving eastward on the highway. The gasoline truck was thrown into the air, and the gasoline spilled out. The gasoline caught fire, and the highway was turned into a river of burning gasoline.

It needed but the lightest match of a careless motorist to start a blaze which for spectacular features and also its threatening nature, had not been eclipsed in Boston for years.

Churches Can Obtain Supply of Wine for Sacrament

Washington, July 19.—Every religious organization in the United States is urged to apply to the Federal Bureau of Investigation for a supply of wine for the sacrament.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation has announced that it has received a supply of wine for the sacrament from the United States Treasury Department. The wine is of the highest quality and is suitable for use in the sacrament.

No Wonder California Boasts

After You Have Read This You Will See Why

"Ripe Mission melons five cents apiece!"
"California plums five cents a dozen!"
Those are the calls of the street vendors. In them you hear the voice and see the sunshine of California brought to you across three thousand miles.

A good deal of good natured fun has been poked at claims for the climate of the great Pacific State. The "native sons" have been thought over-insistent of the attractions of their homeland, but when the figures of this year's crops are read the wonder is that they are so modest.

Here are some of the stupendous figures for 1919:

Fifty thousand cars of oranges and lemons at twelve hundred and fifty dollars a carload.

Four hundred and fifty thousand tons of peaches at eighty dollars a ton.

One hundred and sixty thousand tons of apricots at a hundred dollars a ton.

One hundred and twenty thousand tons of pines at five hundred dollars a ton.

One hundred and ten thousand tons of pears at a hundred dollars a ton.

Two million five hundred thousand boxes of apples at three dollars a box.

Twenty thousand cars of table grapes at twelve hundred and fifty dollars a car.

Six hundred thousand tons of wine grapes, for which thirty dollars a ton has been offered and refused, despite the prospect of prohibition.

Twenty-five thousand tons of walnuts at four hundred dollars a ton.

Six thousand tons of almonds at five hundred dollars a ton.

Two hundred thousand tons of raisins at two hundred and twenty dollars a ton.

Small fruits, like cherries, plums, figs and melons, about twenty million dollars, and olives and olive oil about ten million dollars.

These crops, with the exception of olives, are the largest in the history of the State and about twenty-five per cent. greater than those for last year.

The total value of all the products of the soil and sunshine of California for this banner year will exceed three hundred and fifty millions of dollars.

Compare that, if you want, with the cotton crop of Texas, the corn crop of Illinois, the wheat crop of Kansas, the tobacco crop of Kentucky, and when you have equalized the acreage you will exclaim, with the sons of the Golden Gate, "Hail California!"

This wonderful achievement has not been accomplished without an enterprise and a persistence that is characteristic of Californians.

They have brought fruit trees from all over the world. It was a woman who introduced the seedless orange from Brazil.

Hundreds of thousands of grape vines have been brought from France that the ones best adapted to the soil might be chosen.

Millions of dollars have been spent in fighting insect pests. When the citrus industry was threatened with total destruction the Ladybird from Australia saved it.

To transport the enormous products of the soil the State has already spent $33,000,000 in the construction of the best automobile roads in the world, and on the first of this month the people voted 7 to 1 for another bond issue of $40,000,000 to further extend the motor highways.

No wonder that the enthusiasm born on the shores of the Pacific reaches to the coast of the Atlantic.

No wonder you can tell a Californian because he holds his shoulders a little straighter and his chin a little higher than any body else.

No wonder he boasts. Who wouldn't?

China Cannot Understand

The excuse for the violation of poor China's rights and the robbery of her territory is that the robber nation—Japan—would not join the League of Nations unless first permitted to steal China's property.

The poor, benighted Chinese will doubtless insist that those who aid a thief to rob and keep his swag are no more honest than the thief himself.

The Chinese are such stupid and unreasonable people, you know.

They even profess to doubt that the fine phrases in which the treaty asserts "the inalienable rights of nationality, the rights of minorities and the sanctity of religious beliefs and practices" are anything more than empty noise—anything more than a scrap of paper, if we may plagiarize an eminent German phrase-maker.

DOING ALL YOUR WORK ON HIGH

By J. J. MUNDY

You are so constituted that you must work at high speed to accomplish anything.

You say that your mind wanders unless you are speedily under tension.

And then if you must you abandon the nervous, strained way you usually work for a lazy, desultory way, and you lose.

Just why is it impossible for you to do things in a calm, thoughtful, yet highly efficient manner?

If you would relax you could think deeper and your brain could direct your movements in such a relative way that you could do more and better work in a given time and not be so tired.

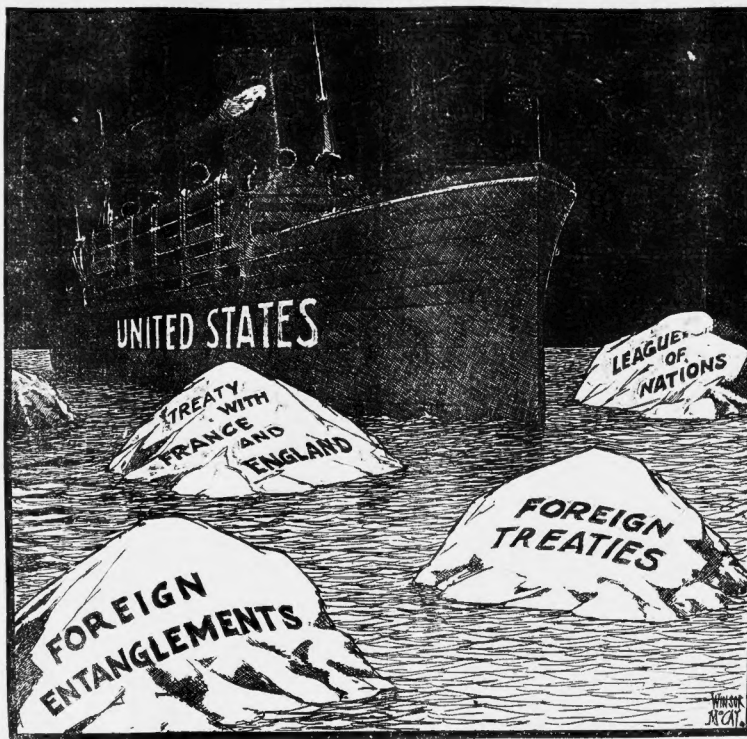

You know the tale of nature and think to get away with that high gear speed of yours without mental wear and tear on your whole system.

Relax your tired, overworked mind. You get your physical machine under easy control so that you can hold it in accord without dropping into low gear.

Try it and see how much better you can work.

By K. C. B.

Dear K. C. B.—I have a boy in my employ who has been with me for sixteen months. He has a brother who has been in the reformatory and I have received several letters telling me that the boy in my employ is no better than his brother and I should discharge him. Also some of the men in my employ think I should not keep him.

I have thought it over, but I cannot bring myself to let him go. He seems square with me, although we watch him carefully, which he seems to know, but doesn't mind in the least. My business is the jewelry business.

What would you do in a case like this? The boy admits he plays pool, but he does not smoke or drink and seems very fond of his mother.

MY DEAR K. C. B.,

THE BEST ANSWER,

I HAVE never heard,

TO THE VERY QUESTION

THAT YOU HAVE ASKED

CAME FROM THE LIPS

OF GEORGE M. COHAN

AND THE ANSWER IS

THERE ARE scores of men,

WHO WILL let their money,

THAT A hand will turn,

OR A hand will win,

OR THE LITTLE HAIL,

WILL STOP on red,

OR A PAIR of dice,

WILL COME to a stop,

BUT THESE things men,

WOULD REFUSE to bet,

WHAT IT MEANS to bet,

IF THEY had their bet.

THAT A card game man,

WHO MIGHT come to them,

WOULD BE smart with them,

IN WHATEVER the bet.

THEY REPOSED in time,

LET'S JUST suppose,

YOU SAY to yourself,

"I'LL KEEP this bet,"

"AND I'LL wager the sum,

"THAT I might lose.

"IF THE boy goes wrong

"THAT HE won't go wrong

AND IF YOU lose,

YOU'LL LOSE that sum.

AND A little faith,

BUT IF YOU win,

YOU'LL HAVE taken a youth,

WHEN HIS days were dark,

AND THE going hard,

AND HAVE started him out,

TO BRIGHTER days.

ON AN easier road,

AND AS for pool,

WHICH THE boy admits,

THAT HE sometimes plays,

I'LL BET him right now,

WITH A little practice,

I COULD skin him to death,

FOR WHEN I was his age,

I COULD run a whole frame

WITHOUT TURNING A hair.

The Frog Pond

By Morton Birge

VACATION NOTE

Among the guests at the Hotel de Barn are noted Messrs. Trolley, Kitchener and Semi-Convertible Car, while their intimate friends, Messrs. Elevated, Tunnel and Subway of the well-known and popular Train family are sunbathing at Camp Yarn. There are missed from their accustomed places. The position balance is maintained, however, by an unparalleled increase in the Walker family.

CLATTER

A leather dealer slips to his cheerful but nervous American will finally come down to earth, when it is the true dancing halls of Boston he and his well figures as no place at all for any nervous guy.

IN EVERYBODY'S MOUTH

Joseph R. Power of Pennsylvania, inventor of the ice cream soda, has died. But he lived long enough to see his invention get into some highball joints that never expected to slip down anything on harmless.

FACE THAT KILLS

Man who checked another man washing windows in a downtown office building reported that the w. took just one and one-half hours to wash the five windows, with three more windows to go. That figured up six hours for the job.

PLAYING WITH FIRE

Do patches from England report a demand for candles who read from the lips.

To sensational films and report any odds that actors in movies let slip. It's only a step from the reading of lips to learning to penetrate thought.

And someone the day when the latter arrives, so few of us think what enough.

REVERSE PERCENTAGE

Four per cent. drink has appeared in Pittsfield. It figured in a court case as 36 per cent. alcohol and 4 per cent. medicine (?).

Letters to the Editor

Cut Out Transfers

Editor Boston American.

As an ex-Boston Elevated conductor of the day and thirty years, I have watched with more or less interest the crab-footed progress of the Boston Elevated in the last ten years.

Now, the beginning of the end started, in my estimation, from the date of the first big strike, and since that time it has been one blunder after another on the part of the management of the "L" and now it is up to the traveling public to put the fare back to five cents and find a way out of the miserable muddle that the "L" now is.

Now is.

Everyone that thinks at all must realize that the greatest asset to any city, town or village is a railroad service that functions efficiently. On the other hand, the worst possible drawback to any community is a transportation system.

With the best interests of the city of Boston at heart, I have a suggestion to make that I think is worthy of some consideration, and that is for the Boston Elevated to put the fare back to five cents and cut out all transfer privileges.

With the exception of a case where, say, three different routes would have to be taken in order to get a person to his destination, in which case fare can be transferred.

Each fare collector would be good for the third fare when presented together for one continuous journey.

I trust that you will think well enough of this suggestion to take it up and feature in your make-up think way.

P. H. MacNEILL.

Britain's Reply on Erin

Full Text of Flat Denial Made by Ian MacPherson, Chief Secretary for Ireland, to Charges by Messrs. Dunne, Walsh and Ryan—Kenyon Bill Offers End of Food Monopoly—W. F. Fitzgerald Has Solution for Bay State Troubles—All the Summer Resort Chatter—Incomparable Comics.

Of all the articles which have been published on the Irish question few, if any, have aroused more instant attention and intense discussion than one which the Boston Sunday Advertiser offers for its readers tomorrow.

This article is the full text of the British reply, issued by Ian MacPherson, Chief Secretary for Ireland, to the charges made by the three American delegates to the Peace Conference in behalf of Ireland.

Messrs. Dunne, Walsh and Ryan made forty-seven separate and distinct allegations of British wrongdoing in Ireland.

Now comes the British reply, a sweeping denial. Boston and New England readers will have tomorrow the first full and complete text of Secretary MacPherson's reply.

The reply cites each of the forty-seven allegations and gives the reply thereto.

At the very start is a flat denial of the first charge, as follows: "ALLEGATION—(1) Hundreds of men and women were confined under circumstances of the most shocking nature in the jails, particularly in the larger cities."

"REPLY—This allegation is absolutely without foundation."

With that as a sample and with forty-six more replies following, one needs not to be told that this British denial of the American envoys' charges will create a mighty stir in this section of the country, where the cause of Erin is a living flame of love and hope and purpose.

The Advertiser was fortunately able to obtain in London the full text of this MacPherson report. It will make mighty good reading through the length and breadth of New England.

What would the Kenyon Bill do to the Food Barons? Grave warning has already been given that, unless the packers' monopoly is curbed, they will have the food of the nation under absolute control. But the Kenyon Bill has been offered at Washington as the solution. This bill provides for a Commissioner of Food-stuffs. It provides for complete regulation of food production and handling. It provides heavy penalties for violation. The bill is of tremendous importance. It is given in full in tomorrow's issue.

I should be read by every wage-earner and householder for its vital bearing upon our food and future.

Could the Bay State trolley system be saved? It could, declares William F. Fitzgerald. He is the Boston banker, trustee of the Massachusetts Electric Company and chairman of the Prosperity Committee of the Democratic State Committee.

In a special article tomorrow Mr. Fitzgerald offers a solution of the financial ills of the Bay State system. Also he throws light upon the general traction situation in Massachusetts.

"Within ten years surgeons will employ the X-ray in connection with nine out of every ten surgical cases."

This prophecy is made in a wonderful article on the amazing development of X-ray surgery in the war and the still greater prospect that is in sight.

The hope is even held forth that consumption, the dreaded "White Plague", may be exterminated within fifty years, from the civilized world, at least, through early discovery of tubercular symptoms.

The new portable X-ray machine, to be used by a physician at the patient's house, is described. Other fascinating points of this marvellous aid to medicine and surgery are explained.

Are you at the shore, country or mountain? Are your friends there? Are you going? Or, have you been there, and come back?

In any of these cases, you will wish to read the news from New England Summer resorts. The SUMMER RESORT SECTION of the Sunday Advertiser is a complete and entertaining report of the latest news up and down the North and South Shores, at the country places, at the lakes and up where New England mountains rear their bracing sides.

This Section is breezy with personal gossip. It fairly breathes the refreshing air of the health giving hot weather retreats. It carries the salt of the surf, the dew of the country grass, the spicy uplift of the wooded places. It is Summer reading, par excellence.

The Weekly Magazine Section tomorrow has a most appropriate cover front in colors. It is a reproduction of V. Aderente's timely painting, "Belated Justice—Votes for Women."

Every housewife will be absorbed by "Science and Your Soiled Collar," a full-page illustrated article in the Magazine Section. It describes the laboratory research which is working out a chemical mixture to clean everything without rotting the fabric.

Precious is the good household servant. But here is a headline in the Magazine part which says: "His Household Servants More Precious Than His Wife." Under this striking caption is given the story of Mrs. Alma Clayburgh, the opera star. It offers a bizarre angle upon the domestic question.

Other pages in the Magazine part are filled with such live topics as: "The Mystery of the Skeleton That Robbed the Hotel Baggage Room," "Found! A Whole New Field of Feminine Charm," and "Ice-Tee" Gowns by Lady Duff Gordon.

There is another double-page instalment of the Billie Carleton tragedy, which followed London's extravagant Victory Ball.

Father—you know, the one they are "Bringing Up"—enters the room just in time to see the pup lapping greedily from the tin pail. Father registers horror. It's in the Comic Section, along with the complicated adventures of Boob McNutt, Mr. Dubb, the Shenanigan Kids and other: of convulsive life.
